Human Trafficking

Human trafficking, often referred to as “modern-day slavery”, involves the recruitment, transportation, transfer, harbouring or receipt of individuals by means such as deception, coercion or abduction for the purpose of labour, sexual or other exploitation.

Tanzania is a source, transit and destination country for men, women and children subjected to forced labour and sex trafficking. Trafficking is mostly believed to occur within the country's borders, involving women and children from rural areas exploited in urban areas in domestic servitude or for other types of forced labour in the agricultural, textile or construction sectors.

In 2008 the Government of Tanzania enacted the Anti-Trafficking in Persons Act criminalizing human trafficking whilst creating a framework for direct assistance to victims of trafficking.

This Directory provides a structured list of service providers and key stakeholders assisting victims of human trafficking along with their contact information.

Foreword

Human trafficking is a growing and complex problem throughout the world, and Tanzania has not been spared from this scourge. In Tanzania, human trafficking often takes the shape of the exploitation of a child, often a girl, separated from her family with the promise of a job or education and then treated like a slave, forced to work under any type of condition, with limited or no freedom at all.

It is therefore of utmost importance to set up and implement an effective strategy to combat human trafficking, providing for victims' protection and assistance, and ensuring that trafficking crime is reported to the criminal justice system and prosecuted.

Tanzania is party to the Protocol to Prevent, Suppress and Punish Trafficking in Persons, especially women and children, supplementing the United Nations Convention against Transnational Organized Crime (2000). The National Anti-Trafficking Action Plan was developed as an instrument to address the issues of trafficking in persons, particularly in the areas of prevention, protection, prosecution as well as rehabilitation. It outlines the strategic goals to drive and steer national efforts to combat trafficking in persons; and related responsibilities within the Government bodies and programme areas to support and ensure effective implementation of the strategic goals.

Within the Government of the United Republic of Tanzania, the Ministry of Home Affairs and the Ministry responsible for Health and Social Welfare in Mainland and Zanzibar; are mandated to provide victim assistance and monitor service provision for victims of trafficking to ensure their welfare. The Government of Tanzania works in close collaboration with the International Organization for Migration (IOM) as well as specialized UN agencies to combat trafficking in persons and provide rapid and appropriate assistance to victims within the framework of the UN Development Assistance Plan 2011-2015.

The basic purpose of this Directory is to provide guidance on the role of Service Providers in implementing the Anti-trafficking in Persons Act, 2008 to combating trafficking in persons by protecting victims of human trafficking through effective support of service provision.

In order to fulfill the Government's vision of eliminating all forms of Child Labour, Violence Against Children, Forced Labour and Human Trafficking and to protect victims from these vices, a holistic approach and concerted efforts are needed from all stakeholders. It is my hope and expectation that this Directory will be used as one of many tools for the close cooperation between all persons, agencies and institutions who are providing care for trafficked persons, and that it will contribute to encouraging more people to come forward and report suspected cases of trafficking to the authorities.

I would like to take this opportunity to reaffirm a strong and firm commitment of the Government of Tanzania to combating human trafficking in all its forms, and to thank the UN for joining us in this important task.

PREFACE

The Anti-Trafficking in Persons Act of 2008

The preamble to the Act provides among other things that: The United Republic recognizes equal rights and inherent human dignity of people as enshrined in the Constitution of the United Republic of Tanzania of 1977, and the United Nations Protocol to Prevent, Suppress and Punish Trafficking in Persons, Especially Women and Children, supplementing the United Nations Convention against Transnational Organized Crime (2000) and other universally accepted human rights instruments and international conventions to which the United Republic is signatory.

The Act contains the following sections: Preliminary Provisions (Part I); Prohibition of Trafficking in Persons (Part II); Investigations and Judicial Proceedings (Part III); Rescue, Rehabilitation, Protection and Assistance to Victims (Part IV); the Anti-Trafficking Fund (Part V); and the Anti-Trafficking Committee (Part VI).

The National Anti-Trafficking Committee

The National Anti-Trafficking Committee is responsible for coordinating activities of government ministries, departments and agencies dealing with matters related to trafficking in persons. It is also the key implementer of the National Plan of Action against trafficking in persons. The Secretariat is headed by the Secretary who is appointed by the President. The secretariat's role is mainly to advise the Anti-Trafficking Committee on matters related to the general administration of the Act.

The Ministry of Home Affairs

The Ministry in cooperation with other Ministries is responsible for taking adequate measures for protection, rehabilitation, assistance and repatriation to rescued victims. The National Anti-Trafficking Secretariat on Human Trafficking is housed in the Ministry of Home Affairs, coordinating the government's multi-sectoral response to human trafficking.

The Ministry Responsible for Health and Social Welfare in Mainland and Zanzibar - Social Welfare Department

The Ministry (Department of Social Welfare) is responsible for implementing rehabilitative and protective programmes for trafficked persons, providing counselling and temporary shelter to trafficked persons and developing a system for accreditation among non-governmental organizations (NGOs) for purposes of establishing centres and programmes for intervention.

The United Nations Development Assistance Plan in Tanzania

The International Organization for Migration (IOM) is part of the United Nations Development Assistance Plan (UNDAP) 2011-2015. UNDAP is the business plan of 20 UN agencies, funds and programmes in Tanzania commonly known as "Delivering as One". On the basis of this plan, IOM is providing technical and financial assistance to NGOs for shelter support, medical services, voluntary counselling and testing, shelter, meals, education and vocational training to child victims of trafficking, family reunification where appropriate as well as the support to the production and dissemination of data on human trafficking.

Moreover, IOM is supporting the development of a Multi-Sectoral Communication strategy on violence against children including trafficked children; assisting the government in developing Regulations for the implementation of the Anti-Trafficking in Persons Act of 2008; and setting up a Directory of Service Providers for victims of trafficking in Tanzania. This booklet has been prepared in this context, following the completion of a mapping exercise of all shelters and service providers present in Tanzania.

The Directory

The Directory of Service Providers in Tanzania is intended to facilitate the referral mechanisms and improve coordination among Service Providers with a focus on the protection and assistance to victims of trafficking as mandated by Tanzania's Anti-Trafficking in Persons Act, 2008. The Directory was compiled by IOM in consultation with the National Anti-Trafficking Committee and its Secretariat members and other stakeholders. The information was provided by the respective Service Providers.

Service Providers

Service Providers are Government Ministries, Departments, Agencies and Non-State Actors organizations providing services to victims of trafficking, including trained specialized psychosocial support, shelter, medical care or legal services. Service Providers may also include UN-Agencies, and local and international NGOs.

How to use the Directory

Service Providers are listed regionally and alphabetically for ease of reference. The following information is included:

- ❖ Focal point contact
- ❖ Office address
- ❖ Website (if available)
- ❖ Mission statement
- ❖ Role in combating trafficking
- ❖ Geographical coverage

Description of Services

Shelter: A place where victims of trafficking can be temporarily accommodated as part of their recovery and rehabilitation.

Medical: A victim of trafficking is entitled to the same access to public health care as Tanzanian citizens.

Psychosocial: Psychosocial services are to be provided to beneficiaries by a qualified mental health professional in coordination with the beneficiaries' case managers, in order to meet their psychosocial needs.

Legal: Beneficiaries should be aware of their legal rights and should be provided with professional legal services to ensure they are able to exercise these rights.

Regularization of stay: Non-national beneficiaries can utilize government services to help prevent untimely deportation from Tanzania by obtaining permits or visas or by other regularizing mechanisms.

Asylum and refugee procedures: Where relevant, beneficiaries are assisted with the procedures involved in determining refugee status and/or seeking asylum.

Skills Building: Programmes are in place aimed at the provision of skills development training for beneficiaries in preparation for 'life after trafficking' and to prevent re-trafficking.

Rehabilitation: Victims of trafficking can utilize rehabilitation activities including sport, games and the arts as part of rehabilitation.

Repatriation: Beneficiaries are returned to the country or area of origin with due regard to safety, prevention of re-trafficking and suitability of care arrangements.

Reintegration: Is intended to provide for the beneficiary's safe, dignified and sustainable reinsertion into society and normalized life. Reintegration also includes prevention of re-trafficking and reunification.
